“ What can I say about Grandma? She was the best.

I love that I have so many wonderful memories of her to cherish. From my childhood to becoming an adult – she was a truly lovely person whom I got to share a large part of my life with and whom I loved dearly. I have been blessed to have her throughout so much of my life.

Being a child at her house was wonderful. It always felt like home. She always kept the cookie jar stocked, and I probably ate most of them, but every time I came back it was restocked with Mother's oatmeal cookies. Sorry Mom and Dad if I was a little hyper when I came back from Grandmas...that was my fault!

There were many fond memories as a child, but my most important memories came from when I was an adult. My wife Kjersten and I were students at Concordia University and were members of the Concordia Concert Choir. My Grandparents are both lovers of music – especially that kind of music.

We invited them to every concert of ours and they came to every concert in the years we spent at University. I have a picture that is in my music room of Grandma, Grandpa, Kjersten and I right after a concert at Concordia that they came. I appreciate their support so much and I know they enjoyed the music that was shared in that place. I love that they made the time to share those precious years and moments with us.

We went over to their house often during college, to hang out, and to have an actual home to go to, being that my parents lived far away at the time. It was so nice to share dinner with them, catch up, walk around the backyard to see what was being gardened, and just enjoy our time together.

Grandma was generous with her home, with her time and with her love and made an impact on the person I am today. She was also one of the sweetest, kindest people I have ever known, and probably will ever know.

I ask in her spirit of love and kindness that each person in attendance today love one another deeply. Share with one another how much you mean to each other. Be there for each other as Grandma was there for me, and she was there for you, too. Honor her memory and give love and kindness.

I love my Grandma. I know she knows we love her as well.

Love,

Your grandson, Ryan

“ Your 87 year journey on earth has come to an end
Your loving smile is forever etched in my heart.
You were ever so joyful, ever so empathetic
Gentle yet strong, considerate yet stubborn, beautifully you.
You never held back, and you loved with every bit of your heart!
You were such a great example and role model to us all;
You were so helpful, kind and encouraging to my dad your dear son.
You were so helpful, kind and encouraging to me, your granddaughter.
You were such a delightful mother to all your children and Grandmother to all your grandchildren.

Today we say goodbye
For you I am forever grateful
Your soul is now at peace
Though this day is most fateful

Although I cannot see you,

I feel your presence near.
I will hold you close in memory,
Till I drop my very last tear.

You made this world a brighter place
Exuding love you could not hold in
You were the reason I became who I am
And your memory will stay golden

So rest now, my beautiful Grandma.
I'll never forget how much you have done.
So until my hand meets yours again,
Sleep now in the sun.
